About the FDP

India's higher education sector is witnessing a consistent growth pattern marked by the setting up of new institutions and the continuing efforts to ameliorate the existing ones. The efforts have gained traction recently with the introduction of the New Education Policy 2020 which envisions the holistic development of our young generation.

The constant changes in society, student expectations, and technology are creating new challenges to our faculty fraternity and they have to redefine and reinvigorate their pedagogical practices and teaching methods to facilitate better creation, transmission and dissemination of knowledge. It is a commonly acknowledged fact that all teachers are lifelong learners. Faculty development has become a priority at many academic institutions as a way to improve the quality of their faculty members and make them equipped with the necessary pedagogical skills and expertise to meet the emerging needs of students, programmes and industry. In this backdrop, the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences at Motilal Nehru National Institute of Technology is offering a seven-day Faculty Development Programme on Academic Effectiveness: A New Perspective to assist the faculty fraternity across the nation to enhance their pedagogical skills and effectiveness.

Objectives of the FDP

- To enhance the pedagogical skills of the practicing/budding academicians.
- To empower the academicians in understanding students' needs, preferences and concerns in online teaching/learning.
- To explore new and emerging areas of student support that needs to be built into the course structures to facilitate better learning.
- To discuss the role of technology in enhancing the academic effectiveness in the present scenario.
- To discuss strategies to enhance the personality and managerial effectiveness of the academic fraternity.
- To explore coping strategies to promote the mental health and well-being of academicians and students during the pandemic.
- To provide a platform to the participants in building a culture for learning based on collaboration, teamwork, and shared vision.
